Travelling to different places \and teaching multilingual classes helped in developing my communication skills through meeting a variety of students with different needs. Moreover, I would like to travel more and teach in different countries to be more experienced and aware of the effect of the culture on learning. In future and despite all the obstacles that I have due to the current situation in my country, I would like to have PhD to have a better job opportunity and to be able to run my own private school to teach special needs students and help them to get through.
